What's in a Name?

A prominent Wall street lawyer whose memory for names is bad recently called to a friend whom he saw passing on the opposite side of the street.

"Hey, there, Maloney," he called;
"I want you to meet a friend of mine."

The friend came across and said almost testily: "Why do you call me Maloney? You know my name is not that. My name is Walsh."

"Why stand on a mere technicality?" said the lawyer, laughing.

The introduction followed.—New York World.

The Park of the World.

Kioto, Japan, is spoken of as the "park of the world." Everything there is beautiful. It was formerly the capital of the empire. It has a population of 380,000. Within the city limits are 378 Buddhist temples and eighty-two Shinto shrines.
The principal products are pottery and porcelain, cut velvets, cloisonne wares, brocades and embroideries.
The beauty of the products is significant of the beauty of the place.
